Research support for projects on Health Sciences Education

If you are in the process of planning a project or already working on a project that focuses on Health Sciences Education, you are welcome to contact me for some support with the project.

The support includes the following:

1. Discussion opportunities to exchange views on the project and possible problems.
2. Drafting documents for funding, the ethics committee and student/lecturer information and consent forms to participate in the project. This is done after the lecturer has drawn up a comprehensive framework.
3. Translating and editing of documents.
4. Providing information on certain aspects of the budget for funding
5. Drafting progress reports for the funders or ethics committee.
6. Providing data base for transcription of interviews (digital recordings).
7. Writing and sending of email messages to interested parties as discussed with the project leader during discussions.
8. Interviews with students and/or staff if time is available
9. Drafting questions (and translating them) for semi-structured interviews in collaboration with the project leader.
10. Assistance with drafting abstracts for conferences.
11. Editing PP slides and posters for conferences.
12. Editing articles for subject journals.
13. Reminding project leader to focus on project.
14. Assisting project leader where necessary and where the necessary skills are available.
15. Helping with organization of workshops focusing on education or curriculum development.
